Starbucks Barista Couldn't Find Babysitter For Toddler Before Work — State Troopers Step In

North Carolina Starbucks manager Harper Spell posted this on her Facebook page, thanking the State Patrol for helping out her fellow employee before a busy shift:

"I wanted to send a special shoutout to our very own North Carolina State Highway Patrol. This was the sight at my Starbucks on University Parkway in Winston Salem, NC today. I had an employee call me in tears at 4:30 AM and tell me she had no one to take care of her daughter this morning as she was already on her way in to work. I told her to not worry, we would figure it out and to bring her on. Shortly thereafter, our regular crew of troopers rolled in the door and took this sweet girl right into their care for over an hour. Trooper Brad and one of his fellow partners were outstanding in making sure we could still get our job done and even had a little fun with it. He even bought her a cup that she had been holding on to all morning. ... It made my heart melt to see this unfold today. Thank you, Brad and NC State Troopers everywhere, you guys rock!"
